

This map illustrates the extensive network of agricultural cooperatives in Nebraska. The state is divided into counties, with major cities and towns marked. A grid system is overlaid on the map, with numbers 1 through 32 along the top and bottom edges, and letters A through P along the left and right edges. The map shows a dense web of lines connecting various cooperatives, each represented by a unique color and logo. Key cooperatives include Farmer's Union, Westco, Panhandle, and many others. The lines radiate from central points, often representing regional hubs, and connect to various locations across the state and beyond. The map also shows neighboring states: South Dakota to the north, Wyoming to the west, Colorado to the southwest, and Kansas to the south. Major cities like Omaha, Lincoln, and Kearney are clearly visible. The map is a comprehensive visual representation of the cooperative movement in Nebraska.
